I know who you are and I speak your language! That's Meredith Brubaker's credo. As a DISC-accredited behavior analyst, Meredith teaches audiences to break through communication barriers to reach the next level in teams, sales and relationships. When establishing her financial services company, she used DISC principles to mentor agents to become top producers. Her reputation as a dynamic trainer spread rapidly and soon she was invited to speak to a group of 500 agents to share her success incorporating DISC methodology.

Known by her friends and colleagues as the networking "Queen", Meredith applies the DISC guidelines to establish rapport and develop potential contacts for the future business and referrals. The DISC model identifies basic personality types coupled with the most effective way to communicate with that particular personality type. DISC methodology gives you that step up when presenting new ideas, securing employee buy-in, resolving conflict, reducing turnover, motivating co-workers, boosting efficiency, reducing operating costs. The list of benefits is endless. DISC can help you succeed in all aspects of your life.

Meredith combines insight with humor and audience participation. Wells Fargo, Prudential, Mary Kay, Penn State Hershey Medical Center, etc. all agree it was time well spent!
